Editors-in-Chief take permanent leave

By Anna Azallion

@annaazallion | Editor-in-Chief

Dear Loveland High School,

This article marks my last responsibility as co-editor-in-chief of the Roar, a position I’m grateful to have had.

After four years in this building that sometimes felt like prison, I’ve spent a lot of time pondering how to say goodbye to not only the building, but the people that make up Loveland High School.

The tradition is to share some stories and a piece of advice or two for those we’re leaving behind. As a journalist, I generally try to refrain from sharing my point of view in favor of reporting facts. On this occasion, however, I am striving to leave behind something that can make a difference for someone, possibly for many.

I want to begin by saying thank you, something that is long overdue and infinitely important.

Thank you first and foremost to Nick Henthorn, the best Co-Editor-in-Chief I could’ve asked for. Secondly, I’d like to thank Mrs. Overbeeke and The Roar staff. Things weren’t always easy this year, but I’m grateful for the hard work and talent each and every one of you brought to The Roar.

I also want to thank every teacher I’ve ever had. We’ve all had teachers we loved, and teachers we weren’t huge fans of, but the fact is, whether we liked them or not, they played a part in who we are today; for that, I’m thankful.

I’m also grateful for the administration, both old and new, and all of the people that had a part in my high school experience. I’m who I am today because of who you are.

As I began to reflect on my years as a Loveland Tiger, I found my eyes looking forward rather than backward. If you’ve been following my monthly column, “The College Convo”, you know that my mind has been on the next chapter for most of the year.

Of course I remember Link Crew orientation, all the football games, and dances, but it all seemed kind of insignificant when I thought about the bigger picture. My mind wandered to the wonderful day soon to arrive on June 3 when I, along with the other 350 seniors, will walk across the stage at the Cintas Center and receive our diplomas, marking the end of this chapter of life.

That moment will be both a finish line and a starting line for all of us. It marks the end of required schooling, the end of an era, the possible end of friendships, but also the end of childhood. It also marks the beginning of more schooling, careers, and adulthood.

We’re 18, and after we walk across that stage, no one will be monitoring whether or not we go to class, how many times we went to the bathroom on Wednesday, or if we truly went to the doctor’s office or just skipped to go get Starbucks. The days of having to have a note from a parent to leave the building will be over, simultaneously beginning an era of independence and of adulthood.

Sounds kind of scary, doesn’t it? I think that while it is kind of scary, it’s also vastly liberating. That moment marks the beginning of truly discovering who you are, something that just doesn’t tend to fully occur during high school. It won’t always be easy, I know, but neither was high school, or middle school, or any part of life.

I found a quote spoken by an unknown, but very wise person, that I think is very fitting for this article.

“Senior year is for the tears, facing the fears, loudening the cheers. You find out how close you are to some and how far away you are from others. You’ll have your lasts and get ready for your firsts. Then look back on it and remember it forever.”

For some, this four-year chapter of life will be remembered forever as the best yet. For others, it was just another thing you had to get through. No matter which category you fall into, it served its purpose, didn’t it? It prepared us to tackle whatever comes next; whether that be college, the military, the workforce, or something else.

To those of you stuck in high school for another one, two, or three years, I want to leave you with some advice.

Have fun.

If you’re an overachiever or a perfectionist like I tend to be, things can get stressful. Between classes, extracurriculars, jobs, and any other responsibilities, high school can get crazy; don’t forget to have fun.

While the other stuff is important, it’s the fun stuff that creates friendships and memories that will last a lifetime.

Get a job.

Not only is this a resume builder for the future, but the money is so nice. While it can make things hectic, I think it’s good practice in time management and juggling everything – something I’m told is important for college.

Enroll in the College Credit Plus program.

This is the smartest thing I’ve done in high school. College Credit Plus is a program that allows you to receive both high school and college credit from classes you take at either UC Clermont, UC Blue Ash, or Sinclair Community College. It’s basically like taking AP classes except there’s more options, it’s easier, and you get college credit no matter what – no AP test, just the grade you got in the class.

I understand this program isn’t for everyone; some people can’t imagine not being at Loveland High School all day, or just aren’t ready for real college classes yet. If you’re worried about not feeling like you’re part of LHS, don’t; you’ll still be a Tiger.

Even if you only take these classes part of the day, you can still go into college with a lot of gen eds out of the way. I only took two classes per semester at UC Clermont during my junior and senior years, but I’m going into college with 12 credit hours of gen eds done.

As basic as this is about to sound, I 10/10 recommend.

This is where I sign off, LHS; it’s been real. Good luck in whatever comes next.

Sincerely,

Anna Azallion

Dear Loveland High School,

All right, I’ve been trying to figure out what to put in this article since the beginning of the year. Before then, even. Really ever since last year’s editors-in-chief wrote their goodbye articles. I knew that next year, that would be me. But all week I’ve been trying to find a way to get this show on the road and I’ve accomplished nothing but repeatedly typing a few sentences and then deleting them - so, by this point, I’ve decided to just get started, even if I don’t know exactly how it’ll end. That’s where I’m at.

Talk about your implied metaphors.

I could ramble on reminiscing about memories I have of these last four years. Going to freshmen orientation and gapping at all the big, mean seniors. Being a clueless freshmen team manager on the football team when we won state (by now I’m the only student left in the school with a championship ring besides that other kid. What’s his name? Duke Paddell? Coop Lapel?), Riding the bench for JV basketball until a torn ACL put me out of my misery. Deciding on a whim to turn in a newspaper application sophomore year, two months after schedules were due. Making it all the way to the finals of Nerf Wars before tragically losing. I could talk about those things, but that’s not what this is about.

I could shovel advice I have about high school into this article, and talk about everything that I’ve come to learn during my four-year-public schooling sentence. I could remind everyone that it’s okay to do bad on a test, that it’s okay to put yourself out there and try something different, that you should always mind your p’s and q’s, and every other cliché thing that you’ve heard before. I could talk about any of that, too, but that’s not what this is about either.

It’s not about those things because I don’t have the right to make it about those things. Too often journalism gone the way of putting the opinions and thoughts of writers on a pedestal, treating them like they matter more than any of their readers’. This position that I’m in and that which any other writer find themselves in is not a position that is meant to empower them to impose their slants or biases onto the populace, but a position that is meant to empower the populace to create their own slants and inclinations (here I was talking down to clichés). That’s what I’ve tried to promote this year, to varying degrees of success.

That said, it would be hypocritical for me to go about this article, the last of my high school career, proliferating the very things that I abhor.

So now that I’ve made it painstakingly clear what this isn’t about, what is this about?

This is about nothing more than expressing a little bit of overdue gratitude. First of all: thank you to each and every one of my teachers, in classes from chemistry with Mrs. Partridge to music appreciation with Mr. Miller (glad I got to experience that class before it got canned). Depending on the time of day and subject that you had me in, I have a few different things to apologize for. If you had me in the morning, I’m sorry for spending much of class in a comatose state. If you had me later in the day, I’m sorry for making so much noise, most of it not even coherent.

No matter when I had your class, I can guarantee that you’ve played a role in helping me figure out what I’m doing and where I’m going, so I cannot thank you enough for that.

Second, thank you to administration for a couple of things. Both for keeping this school the great place that it is and for dealing with me and the whole newspaper staff whenever we had questions or requests.

Lastly, thank you to all the students that call this school their own. Even if you’ve never read anything of mine, or even seen me before, or even knew that this school has a newspaper until now, you should know that I have written for this newspaper the last two years for no reason besides all of you.

Whew. That was heavy. And, now, no sendoff would be complete without shoutouts.

Shoutout to Anna Azallion for being a great co-editor-in-chief and handling most of those pesky managerial responsibilities.

Shoutout to Patrick Seroogy for getting into journalism as a sophomore when it was still a junior-senior only class. I still have no idea how you did that.

Shoutout to Stone Taul for being named Stone Taul.

Shoutout to Chris for being named Chris.

Shoutout to Mackenzie Talbott for babysitting those two.

Shoutout to Cole Behrens for restraining himself from advancing the communist agenda in the paper.

Shoutout to Alyssa James for getting me that label maker as a Secret Santa party present in Journalism.

Shoutout to Hannah Bingham for all your help. You earned that cookie cake.

Shoutout to the Wall of Nick. Gone, but never forgotten.

And shoutout to every member of newspaper for helping make a paper all of us can be proud of.

Shoutout to Yearbook for being subpar.

Shoutout for W.F.H.B.P.J.C.F.A.I. for getting a win.

Shoutout to Andrew Boys, Evan Abbott, and Mason Hytree for being the three Robins to my Batman during football season.

Shoutout to Brett McFarland for being a flagpole of stoutness and resiliency.

Shoutout to Dart Team 6 for bearing down.

Shoutout to Ben Hickey and Joseph Smith.

As promised:

Lastly, shout out to the whole student body. It’s been an experience.

Sincerely,

Nick Henthorn

Page Editors: Niki Fiorenza and Alyssa James

Abbott, Evan: Try in class or you'll regret it when applying for college comes around.

Addington, Cam: Don't try too hard.

Ahmed, Sohaib: Don't give up on your dreams; keep sleeping.

Albin, Jarrett: Don't make a Twitter account where you supposedly ""compliment"" all of your classmates (@SophomoreCompliments). Only become a president of a club whose values you truly represent :)

Allen, Kiley: Study, but don't spend too much time studying. Spend some time with friends and family and enjoy the little things.

Andrus, James: Do your homework; trust me, d00d.

Atwan, Khalil: Good luck.

Autin, Aaron: Don't avoid joining a club, group, or sport just because its unfamiliar; if it interests you, take a chance. It may be one of your best decisions in high school.

Azallion, Anna: Naps are key.

Baarlaer, Declan: Don't let the man bring you down.

Bagnoli, Ryan: Relax your senior year.

Bailey, Katelyn: Use the terrible wifi or else you'll waste all your data trying to watch Netflix.

Bailey, Kim: Enjoy every day in high school, get involved, and make tons of memories that you can look back on and laugh at. :)

Bailey, Kristen: Who cares what people think? Go all out during spirit weeks!

Bailey, Maggie: Get involved and participate as much as possible!

Baker, Alex: Don't cry; it will be over soon.

Balzarini, Carly: Don't procrastinate.

Bartnik, Liz: Every year matters.

Bashardoust, Hannah: Don't be too upset over one bad test grade; it's not the end of the world.

Bateman, Grace: Get 93% average so you don't have to take finals.

Batsch, Stephanie: Enjoy it.

Beck, Cameron: Cherish every moment because time really does fly.

Becker, Riley: Leave as fast as possible.

Behling, Ellie: Don't substitute Monster and sweatpants for sleep more than 3 days in a row.

Behrens, Cole: The lost and found is a good way to find nice clothes for free.

Bell, Ethan: If you fall down you can always pick yourself up.

Benesh, Justin: Enjoy your life now and remember that there is life outside of high school.

Beran, Claire: Don't become Nerf Wars commissioner.

Berryman, Emma: Work hard, have fun, and don't worry about the drama.

Binford, Autumn: Whatever needs to happen will happen and it will all be okay. So don't stress out too much about the little things because it will all work out just fine in the end.

Bingham, Hannah: It's a marathon, not a sprint.

Blanchard, Kelsey: Hang out with friends as much as possible.

Blumberg, Rachel: Drama is pointless.

Bow, Claudia: Don't stop believing. Don't give up. In marching band, don't be A3. You will be wrong.

Boys, Andrew: Don't suck.

Broermann, Lynn: Remember to have fun.

Brotherton, Patrick: Do your work, work hard and listen to your teachers.

Brownfield, Alex: Don't forget to work your butt off to get into a good college.

Brulport, Adam: Make the most of every year.

Burns, Lucy: Do ALL YOUR HOMEWORK, because most things in the grade book are homework points. Also, take notes.

Butler, Isaac: Don't do drugs.

Campbell, Jacob: Enjoy your last year; it goes by fast.

Carle, Brycen: Stay strong and hold on.

Carver, Joe: Don't be afraid to try something new.

Catalfino, Lauren: Have fun now because life only gets more complicated.

Clark, Mckenna: Try your hardest in whatever you do!

Clark, Morgan: Enjoy high school while it lasts.

Clements, Jacob: Live it up; it goes by fast.

Courtney, Devin: Don't let senioritis kick in too early.

Cox, Olivia: Make the most of High School (-:

Craft, Maddie: Stay in school kids!

Crum, Rachel: Don't try to rush through high school; enjoy it.

Cummins, Madelyn: Walk on the right side of the hallway.

Daugherty, Max: Celebrate your Birthday every year.

Daumeyer, Henry: Be proactive, don't procrastinate.

Davis, Caleb: Show up.

Davis, Laci: Actually do your homework.

Deal, Aniliese: Invest in ice cream and duct tape. They can fix anything.

Dial, Aiden: Sleep>Homework.

Dillhoff, Julia: Work hard, be kind, be humble.

Dixon, Tyler: Don't be soft.

Docherty, Drew: Take my advice; I don't use it anyway.

Dowd, Maggie: Smile and laugh more.

Dunning, Luke: Do stupid stuff; it's worth it.

Dygart, Andrew: Don't mess up.

Edison, Claire: Take so many naps.

Eilert, Margaret: Don't take advantage of your good friends - appreciate every moment you have with them.

El-esses, Hashem: Have fun senior year.

Elliott, Noah: Never use the boy's bathrooms; you will regret it.

Ellis, Matt: Get involved early and often; the more you do at Loveland the more fun you will have.

Ernst, Rachel: Don't expect to walk out with the same people.

Eskender, Anna: Do not change who you are to be others' entertainment. If you are real to yourself and others, life in high school will be more peaceful. Have joy in the little things and tune out the bad!

Fackler, Katie: Wash your hands.

Faingold, Sam: Don't stress about what you're going to do or what you have done; just try to make the most of what you're doing right now.

Ferrell, Josh: Do everything you can, because it'll be over before you know it.

Ferreri, Dominic: Get out of class often.

Fiorenza, Niki: Look for friends in unexpected places. Focus on your own happiness. Stick to a skincare regimen.

Fissel, Megan: Do your work.

Fjelstul, Grace: Be yourself and don't listen to the haters. Also get involved in anything and everything.

Fletcher, Travis: Decide early a path in life. It makes everything so much easier.

Foster, Denis: Don't do drugs.

Fox, Taylor: Don't be afraid to skip a day every now and then.

Funke, Brady: Goof off, but do your work...teachers love that.

Geers, Peyton: Go to as many things you can.

Geier, Samuel: Git good.

Geist, Jonathan: Participate in everything you can.

George, Bailey: As quoted from the movie Zootopia, "Try everything," especially Book Club.

Gillespie, Emma: Enjoy every moment. Be yourself and participate in dress up days and sporting events. Be kind and include everyone.

Goldwasser, Tamar: Don't worry about friendships; they come and go but your grades will follow you to college.

Goret, Alison: Be involved in school and take the classes you want.

Grafflin, Drew: Do what you want and don't worry about what others think.

Gray, Hannah: Get involved with school activities.

Grethel, Eleanor: Take AP classes!

Gunn, Blue: People are not looking at you no matter how much you think they are. They don't care as much as you think they do.

Guzior, David: Do what you love.

Haddad, Allese: Get involved and have fun!

Haddad, Nicklas: Stop caring what people think of you so much; be the best person you can be.

Hains, Alli: Relationships in high school don't mean much in the long run, so don't sweat it if you're not dating anyone right now.

Hansberry, Alex: Don't stress over the things you can't change.

Hansberry, Erin: Don't take high school for granted; it goes by way too fast.

Harris, Christian: Do your homework.

Hartzler, Kayla: Join school clubs and activities and stay involved.

HasenoehrI, Claire: Good luck.. it isn't as bad as you'd think.

Hastings, Morgan: Do what you want to do, not what others want you to do.

Henthorn, Nick: Three words: everything in perspective.

Herrmann, Jackson: Walk up the right side of the stairs.

Hesse, Andrew: Get a dirt bag; they're one of the best sacks.

Hickey, Abby: Don't get stuck on the idea you've had in your head of where you're going to end up; let yourself have options.

Hicks, Carlie: Have fun and try many new things, even if you're not good at everything that you try! Also be friends with a lot of different people; it will really amaze you who is really your friend!

Hilliker, Joe: Do your work well; be proud of what you accomplished.

Hodge, Chandler: Get out soon.

Hoge, Julia: Never skip chem homework.

Holley, Karlin: Go to things, but also sleep as much as you can, and just enjoy it.

Hollon, Cheyenne: To take everything in because it goes by really fast.

Hook, Kyle: Be an ambassador.

Huether, Megan: You only have 4 years of high school. They will be filled with ups and down, but it's your job to make them count. As much as grades are important, don't waste your high school life with the mindset of "just getting through" the next 4 years. You should try to enjoy every moment of it.

Hughes, Bethann: Don't worry about what people think; just do what makes you happy.

Hutton, Katie: Do your homework.

Hyttee, Mason: Learn how to walk in the hallway.

Ingal, Rachel: Be ambitious.

James, Cheyanne: Always do your work on time, never get behind.

Jeffery, Regan: Get a 93% average so you can be exempt from your exams.

Jenkins, Luke: Be cautious of senioritis.

Jodice, Brad: Do your work and never miss a day.

Jordan, Leah: Senioritis is real.

Joy, Sam: Shrek is drek, Farquaad for life.

Karp, Zach: If you have a stripped screw, you can place a rubber band on it to give the screw driver traction.

Kelley, Daniel: Joke around, have some fun, be a kid for a few more years. Adulting isn't as fun.

Kendrick, Elise: Get involved with as much as you can and try to stay focused in school but don't take it too seriously.

Kenyon, Danielle: PARTICIPATE IN EVERYTHING!

Kieffer, Ben: Don't drink more than like 9 Mountain Dews in one sitting.

Klenke, Erin: Go to all the school events (games, plays, dances, etc.) you'll regret it if you don't!

Kluender, Ally: Do your homework before the morning it's due.

Kluender, Lindsay: Procrastination is key.

Kluge, Brett: The pain is almost over.

Knight, Roy: To never give up and that you can do whatever you set your mind to.

Korniak, Jacob: If an upper-classman wants to hang out with you in middle of the night, it's because you have a great personality.

Lamson, August: Power through y'all! You got this!

Landsom, Owen: Keep working hard.

Lawry, Nate: Chalk it.

Leever, Grant: Senioritis can't set in until 4th quarter senior year.

Lendenski, Johnny: Have fun.

Locasto, Tess: Drama is pointless. Get over it.

Lusk, Alex: Study and do your hw. Take high school seriously.

Mary, Sean: Don't let senioritis beat you.

McAfee, Hunter: Don't have any high school regrets.

McClellan, Alec: Be loud.

McCoy, Thomas: Keep your body a temple.

McElveen, Katie: It's cool to be kind.

McFarland, Brett: Use the word "bequeath" in casual conversation. It will truly enhance your social interactions.

McGeorge, Britney: Do your homework, every last point counts. Don't start slacking when you get to senior year; it's more important than you think. Give it your all.

Meckey, James: Don't wait till the last minute to do something.

Miller, Jacob: Do your homework; it actually really helps a lot with your grades.

Missar, Zoe: Don't slack off; give it your all all 4 years of high school.

Moncada, Daniella: Try out for Show Choir and join different clubs.

Morey, Jessica: Get involved, go to everything, and go all out for themes and dress up days.

Moss, Andrew: Don't take life too seriously.

Moss, Danny: Homework can always be done right before class.

Nance, Kyle: Graduate early.

Nash, Moss: For the love of God, get a planner.

Nichols, Jenna: Go to the football games and scream as loud as you can.

O'Nan, Stephen: High school is just another thing to get done. So get it done and get over it.

Oberholzer, Rachel: Just wing it.

Oppenheimer, Nic: Never stop chasing your dream...never.

Oshima, Kristen: Get involved.

Oslack, Luke: Take easy and fun classes senior year.

Ovens, Sean: Have you tried turning it off and on again?

Parker, Jon: Have a conversation with Dave Volkman at least once.

Parsley, Jacalyn: Get involved with as much as possible and try your best to go to all kinds of events and meet new people!!

Also, take it all in every step of the way; it goes by faster than you would think :.) rip.

Patton, Reagan: Don't drop your mute and don't swim during the National Anthem.

Pearson, Jane: Skip the horrendous-teenage-driving traffic after school- stay around for a while to chat with pals/find something spontaneous to do.

Perl, Erica: Never let the opinions of others influence your decisions.

Peter, Ava: Make as many memories as you can with all of your friends because before you know it, you'll all be going off to different colleges.... also, don't get involved in petty drama!!!

Poole, Caroline: Drama only exists because everyone is bored.

Poole, Emily: Time really does go by fast so don't try to rush through high school; enjoy time with your friends and family because you won't have them when you're out on your own.

Erin, Portune: Stay in school.

Powell, Lydia: Take hard classes before senior year because senior year you will have little to no motivation to do anything.

Price, Mallory: Your freshman GPA is more important than you think it is.

Quisenberry, Russell: Don't have any regrets, have fun.

Ramsey, Zach: Don't freak out about homework; if I can graduate so can you.

Rawson, Lucy: Don't do nerf wars.

Ray, Matthew: Do your work and make sure you have fun doing it.

Reardon, Maggie: Dress up during homecoming week !!

Redslob, Renn: Go and get it Loveland High.

Reich, Mark: Find friends.

Richardson, Ben: No matter how hard it gets, someone else has it harder. Suck it up and push through it.

Richmond, Nate: Surround yourself with great people.

Richter, Vaughn: Procrastinate.

Robinson, Mitch: Don't trip up/down the stairs.

Rolfes, Ryan: It goes by too fast; enjoy high school while it lasts.

Scharfenberger, Malorie: Work hard in all your classes, because retaking a class sucks.

Seltzer, Zach: Leave now.

Sexton, Jack: Don't do drugs.

Shaver, Emily: Go to every Jazz Band concert! They're SO fun and crazy good.

Shilling, Max: Learn everyone's name.

Shilling, Molly: Participate in LHS Cappies!

Simms, Kaylie: Don't be full of yourself. You're not the only idiot in this place.

Slagel, Torey: Get involved!!! Don't take yourself too seriously and have fun :)

Smart, Tayla: You can still turn in your homework regardless of the tear track on it.

Smith, Ben: Don't be afraid of Mr. Marchal.

Smith, Braxton: People will tell you that it only gets worse from here on out. They're right.

Smith, Logan: Make the most of your senior year- it'll fly by.

Smith, Sarah: Working hard is important, but taking care of yourself is also important.

Stephenson, Emily: Don't let trivial drama and the opinions of others keep you from what you want. Who you are is what defines you, not who you want to be, so be the best you can be now. Don't forget to step back sometimes and just enjoy where you are in life; even if times seem hard, there is always a silver lining.

Suder, Mitch: Don't fret over the small stuff.

Swartz, Cole: Don't bother trying to use your locker; there's never enough time.

Switzer, Noah: Never give up and try your best.

Syed, Ali: Keep yourself busy.

Symons, Shannon: Join something and stick with it.

Talbott, Mackenzie: Don't drink coffee in Mr. Warden's class.

Taylor, Anna-Jessie: Everything turns out okay in the end, so stop worrying about everything in the future and pay attention to the present.

Tessler, Francesca: Cry as much as you can.

Thomas, Eric: You do you.

Toney, Samuel: Do not take Honors Chem.

Turner, Leah: Taking naps is a great way to procrastinate.

Tuttle, Gunnar: Have pride in your school. It will make your time here much more enjoyable.

Veeneman, Micayla: Be with people who make you happy.

Vincenty, Nicolas: Do your homework.

Vitali, Gianna: Do as many things as possible while you're still in high school to build up your college resumes, because even if you think you're doing a lot, there is always someone doing more who has better chances than you.

Vuyk, Katherine: Don't hesitate to speak your mind.

Waddell, Luke: Do what you're passionate about.

Wagner, Tarah: Tell your parents you love them; Tell your friends you love them; If it won't matter in 5 years, it doesn't matter now.

Walker, Delaney Grace: Challenge yourself but know your limits and don't overload your schedule. It's good to enjoy life.

Warden, Katelyn: Make your high school years count. Get involved, take pictures, cherish the little things, and hangout with anyone and everyone.

Watts, Braden: Get hard classes done before senior year.

Wellington, Andy: Try in school; you will thank me later in life.

Wene, Kelton: Don't be a bum.

4 Congrats Class of 2017!

16 Freshman Year Throwback

FRIDAY, May 26, 2017

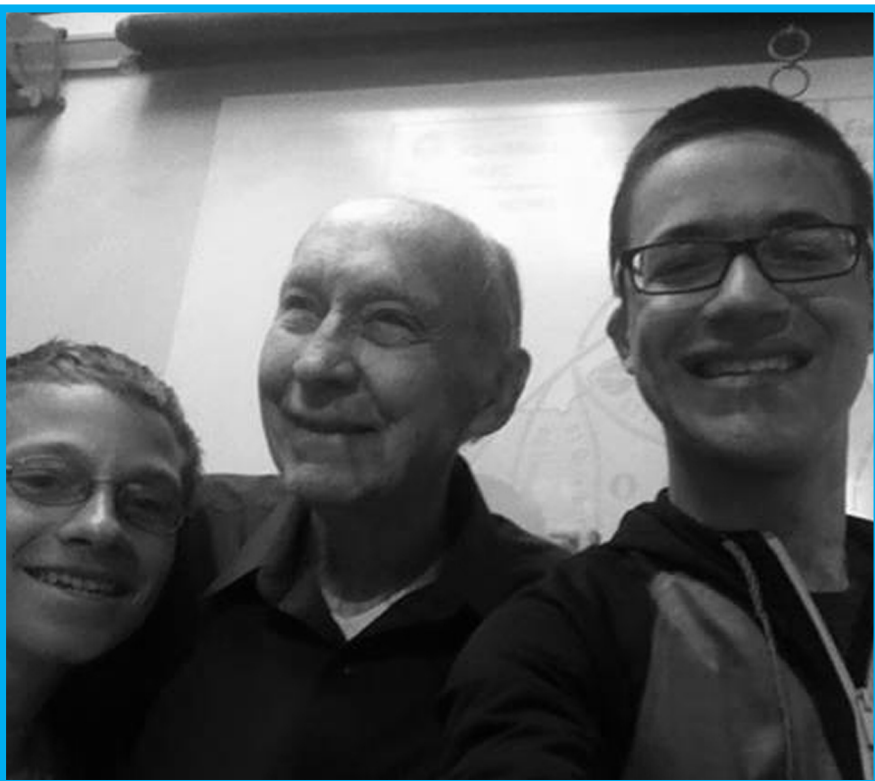

Page Editor: Sam Smith

Hunter Wentland (12) and Drew Grafflin (12) freshman year. Both played on the lacrosse and football teams.

Tess Locasto (12) and Calvin Whitaker (12) at their freshman Homecoming. Locasto helped lead the cheerleading team, and Whitaker played football since freshman year.

Caleb Davis (12) and Joe Hilliker (12) with a Holocaust survivor and speaker freshman year. Hilliker hopes to open a restaurant and Davis ran track throughout high school.

Maddie Craft (12), Stephanie Batsch (12) and Julia Dilhoff (12) the winter of freshman year. Craft was the stage manager for several plays, on cross country and track and Dilhoff played lacrosse and was the cross country captain.

Margaret Eilert (12) before freshman Homecoming. Eilert won best female soloist at the National Showchoir Competition, along with being awarded the Maegly Music Scholarship. Yes, that's actually Margaret.

Morgan Hastings (12) at a swimming pool freshman year. Hastings holds the 4x400 relay steeplechase school record for track. She was the track captain junior and senior year.

Lynn Broermann (12) and Megan Schuster (12) together freshman year. Schuster and Broermann both played on the varsity soccer team.
